

Dad's Coming Home

Dad's coming home and I'm so excited, and I'm an awesome kid
Dad is finally coming home, isn't it great! and I'm a super-duper kid
I'm so so happy that Dad's deployment is finally over and he's coming home for good, and I'm an awesome kid

I'm so excited that Dad's coming home
His deployment is finally be over
6 months finally over, can you believe it?
It's so exciting
It will be so great to have Dad back
So great to have my Dad back
So great Dad is coming home
Dad will be with me again—I missed him so much

Dad will be home with me again and I can't wait!

I keep thinking about all the things I want to do with Dad!
And all the things he'll want to do with me
I can hardly sleep I'm so excited
I can hardly concentrate at school I'm so excited
I've been thinking about this since the day Dad left
I'm really so happy and excited
But a little bit nervous too, which seems strange
So excited and a bit nervous

Dad will be home soon and I really can't wait!

Even though Mom has warned me that some things may be different when he gets home, I know I'm an awesome kid
Mom has warned me that there will be changes again at home when Dad gets back, and I know I'm a super kid

Mom says Dad will sleep a lot when he gets home
Mom says things might be different for a while
Mom and my sister and I have been here at home together and the only thing that changed for us was that Dad was gone
But Dad's been used to a different bed, a different place, different people and different food, even a different time zone
It might take him a while to get used to our days and nights again
It might take him a while to get used to the house again, and it might take him a while to get used to being with family again
It makes me feel strange that Dad might be different
I don't understand it, and It seems strange.

I want to be over all these feelings that I'm excited and nervous about Dad coming home

Mom says that things might be different at home again when Dad gets back
We're going to have to get used to each other again
But it will still be happier than when Dad was gone
Even if things are different, and Mom and Dad get cranky
I'm still so happy that Dad is coming home
I understand that people get tired and cranky when they get used to things
And I'm so happy that Dad will be home
I love Dad so much and I'm excited and nervous and I just can't wait.